

Economic Advantage

May 2024 review

Liontrust UK Growth Fund

Anthony Cross
Head of Economic Advantage

Julian Fosh
Fund
Manager

Matt Tonge
Fund
Manager

Victoria Stevens
Fund
Manager

The Liontrust UK Growth Fund returned 2.9%* in May. The FTSE All-Share Index comparator benchmark returned 2.4% and the average return in the IA UK All Companies sector, also a comparator benchmark, was 3.2%.

Neither higher-than-expected UK inflation nor the potential uncertainty from an early-July election could derail UK shares this month, as buoyant investor sentiment pushed global stock markets higher.

UK consumer price inflation dropped to 2.3% in April – down from 3.2% in March but still higher than the 2.1% expected, pushing back the market's assessment of when the first Bank of England rate cut will arrive. Although expectations for interest rate cuts in 2024 continued to moderate on both sides of the Atlantic in May, investors took heart from a building picture of economic and corporate resilience.

Encouragingly, sentiment towards UK equities appears to be on an improving trajectory. Economic growth, while muted, has turned positive, with the 0.6% expansion registered during the first quarter of 2024 the fastest growth in two years. The UK is heading for a general election on July 4 and, if the polls are to be believed, a stable majority government will likely be formed which should provide a supportive market backdrop. When combined with inflation which – while decelerating slower than expected – is heading towards target, this has paved the way for a more constructive outlook for UK equities.

While this renewed enthusiasm has, to date, predominantly been of benefit to larger companies within the FTSE 100, May saw encouraging signs of a pickup in appetite for smaller companies. While the FTSE 100 rose 2.1%, the FTSE 250 mid-cap index gained 4.2% and the FTSE Small Cap (ex-investment trusts) Index rose 6.7%. The FTSE AIM All Share Index has been particularly weak during the bout of small-cap underperformance in recent years, but it gained 6.1% in May.

Despite this incremental improvement in the sentiment towards UK equities, valuations of UK listed companies remain substantially lower than their long run average and their global peers.

As the fund managers have highlighted on several occasions in recent months, these low valuations mean many UK companies have proven susceptible to takeover approaches from private equity or corporate acquirers keen to exploit the opportunity.

May was a particularly busy month in terms of Fund holdings being targeted by potential acquirers. The Fund's largest riser was Keywords Studios (+94%), a support services provider to the video gaming industry, which was added to the portfolio only a few months ago as a new position. Its shares almost doubled after confirming it was in discussions with Swedish private equity group EQT regarding a possible 2550p cash offer, having rejected four lower offers in recent months.

Perhaps the highest profile takeover approach on the UK market in May was for Hargreaves Lansdown (+30%). It announced it had rejected two takeover proposals from a private equity consortium, most recently at 985p a share. The shares promptly soared in excess of the mooted takeover price, and Hargreaves Lansdown has subsequently re-entered the FTSE100 index.

The third confirmed takeover target in the portfolio was engineer Wood Group (+19%). It disclosed that it had rejected three successive takeover proposals from Dubai-based group Sidara at 205p, 212p and 220p a share. In 2023, Wood Group received five takeover proposals from private equity group Apollo, rejecting the first four but agreeing to enter discussions following the final cash proposal of 240p before Apollo dropped its interest.

Elsewhere among the Fund's major risers in May, specialist media group Future (+60%) saw its shares rebound following the release of interim results. Future shares had previously sold off heavily over the course of 2022 and 2023, hit by broader weakness in the advertising market, the announcement of increased investment costs to stimulate medium-term growth and also lingering concerns over the potential impact of generative AI on its business model. While reporting a 2% organic revenue decline to £391 million in the six months to 31 March, Future noted that Q2 saw a return to organic growth, with revenues rising 3%. This stabilisation in revenues gives Future confidence in maintaining its prior full-year guidance. Longer term, the group expects its recent investments to accelerate organic revenue growth into the mid-single digit range.

Enterprise software provider Sage Group (-1.2%) dropped as investors adjusted to a small downgrade in revenue growth guidance for the year to 30 September. Sage generated 9% organic growth in revenues in the first half of the year, a rate it expects to deliver for the full year – down marginally on the prior 10% growth guidance. Underlying operating profit rose 18% in the interim period as operational gearing led to a 1.6 percentage point expansion in margins. Despite what was a resilient performance from the business, the share price reaction reflected the extent to which Sage's valuation has re-rated upwards over the past year. Having risen over 60% in 2023, the correction represented a retracement of a small proportion of those gains.

Engineering group Renishaw (-3.6%), a specialist in high-tech precision measuring and calibration equipment, described mixed conditions cross its market in a Q3 update (for the three months to 31 March) which resulted in a 4% year-on-year drop in revenues. While metrology sensor demand from the consumer electronics sector was weak, there were some signs of recovery in the semiconductor industry. Shares in Renishaw softened during the month of May, although the move came after a strong run for the shares in the earlier months of the year.

BP (-5.1%) also slid as its Q2 underlying profit of $2.7 billion fell short of analyst consensus of $2.9 billion, while sentiment towards spirits giant Diageo (-5.2%) remains weak due to concerns over the resilience of demand in its key US market. Haleon (-4.2%) shares softened after GSK sold its remaining 4% stake in the business at a price of 324p, a discount of a few per cent to the share price at the time.

Positive contributors included:

Keywords Studios (+94%), Future (+60%), Hargreaves Lansdown (+30%), Wood Group (+19%) and Next15 Group (+14%).

Negative contributors included:

Sage Group (-12%), Diageo (-5.2%), BP (-5.1%), Haleon (-4.2%) and Renishaw (-3.6%)

Discrete years' performance (%) to previous quarter-end:

	Mar-24	Mar-23	Mar-22	Mar-21	Mar-20
Liontrust UK Growth I Inc	7.3%	3.2%	13.2%	22.6%	-14.0%
FTSE All Share	8.4%	2.9%	13.0%	26.7%	-18.5%
IA UK All Companies	7.6%	-1.9%	5.4%	38.0%	-19.2%
Quartile	3	1	1	4	1

*Source: Financial Express, as at 31.05.24, total return (net of fees and income reinvested), bid-to-bid, institutional class. Source: Financial Express, as at 31.03.24, total return (net of fees and income reinvested), bid-to-bid, primary class.

For a comprehensive list of common financial words and terms, see our glossary at:

<https://www.liontrust.co.uk/benefits-of-investing/guide-financial-words-terms>

Key Risks

Past performance does not predict future returns. You may get back less than you originally invested. We recommend this fund is held long term (minimum period of 5 years). We recommend that you hold this fund as part of a diversified portfolio of investments.

The Fund may encounter liquidity constraints from time to time. The spread between the price you buy and sell shares will reflect the less liquid nature of the underlying holdings.

The Fund may invest in companies listed on the Alternative Investment Market (AIM) which is primarily for emerging or smaller companies. The rules are less demanding than those of the official List of the London Stock Exchange and therefore companies listed on AIM may carry a greater risk than a company with a full listing.

Outside of normal conditions, the Fund may hold higher levels of cash which may be deposited with several credit counterparties (e.g. international banks). A credit risk arises should one or more of these counterparties be unable to return the deposited cash.

Counterparty Risk: any derivative contract, including FX hedging, may be at risk if the counterparty fails.

The issue of units/shares in Liontrust Funds may be subject to an initial charge, which will have an impact on the realisable value of the investment, particularly in the short term. Investments should always be considered as long term.

Disclaimer

This document is issued by Liontrust Fund Partners LLP (2 Savoy Court, London WC2R 0EZ), authorised and regulated in the UK by the Financial Conduct Authority (FRN 518165) to undertake regulated investment business.

It should not be construed as advice for investment in any product or security mentioned, an offer to buy or sell units/shares of Funds mentioned, or a solicitation to purchase securities in any company or investment product. Examples of stocks are provided for general information only to demonstrate our investment philosophy. The investment being promoted is for units in a fund, not directly in the underlying assets.

This information and analysis is believed to be accurate at the time of publication, but is subject to change without notice. Whilst care has been taken in compiling the content, no representation or warranty is given, whether express or implied, by Liontrust as to its accuracy or completeness, including for external sources (which may have been used) which have not been verified.

This is a marketing communication. Before making an investment, you should read the relevant Prospectus and the Key Investor Information Document (KIID) and/or PRIIP/KID, which provide full product details including investment charges and risks. These documents can be obtained, free of charge, from www.liontrust.co.uk or direct from Liontrust. If you are not a professional investor please consult a regulated financial adviser regarding the suitability of such an investment for you and your personal circumstances. All use of company logos, images or trademarks in this document are for reference purposes only.